Experience and Background

Owen's clinical experience and expertise is in the assessment and treatment planning of both acute and chronic conditions.

Owen will build rapport and trust with clients and their families to form a therapeutic relationship to set realistic goals and promote adherence to ongoing treatment. Owen will take time to understand the client's condition to ensure that the patient is involved in decisions regarding their care. Owen will ensure appropriate referrals to other members of the MDT are made. He currently works within a multi-disciplinary team in his role with the persistent pain service and works closely with pain management consultants, psychologists and nurses to ensure the patient is supported with all their clinical needs. Owen's experience working in the community enable him to develop skills in supporting people with disabilities and functional difficulties in their own homes with the support of clinical professionals.

Owen qualified as a Chartered Physiotherapist in 2016, he is registered with the Chartered Society of Physiotherapy and the Health and Care Professionals Council.

Owen started his career working for the Sirona Community Rehabilitation Team providing physiotherapy at home for an NHS caseload. He then moved to London and worked for Vita Health group dealing with musculoskeletal disorders. His current NHS work is split between being Clinical Lead Physiotherapist at the University Hospital Bristol and Weston NHS Persistent Pain Service and as a First Contact Practitioner for the Swift Primary Care Network.
