Biography

Joshua graduated with a BSc (Hons) in Physiotherapy from the University of Hertfordshire and is an experienced specialist in-patient Physiotherapist with over five years of combined NHS and private sector experience. Within his current role in an acute hospital setting, he provides comprehensive, evidence-based rehabilitation to a diverse range of patients. Joshua is known for his adaptable, professional, and empathetic approach, supporting individuals through all stages of their recovery and promoting long-term independence. His clinical work spans multiple specialties, including orthopaedics, neurology, and respiratory care, allowing him to deliver holistic treatment plans tailored to each patient's needs.

Joshua has developed particular expertise and interest in orthopaedic rehabilitation, the care of older adults, and bariatric support; areas in which he continues to enhance his knowledge through ongoing professional development. Alongside his hospital role, Joshua is the owner and Lead Physiotherapist at NextStep Physio, where he provides bespoke community physiotherapy. By delivering high-quality care directly in patients' homes, he ensures accessibility, continuity, and meaningful progress for those who may find it difficult to attend clinical appointments.
